

moniquemeloche

451 N Paulina Street, Chicago 60622
312 243 2129 moniquemeloche.com

artnet® news

10 Upcoming Shows By Groundbreaking Female Artists

by Cait Munro, Tuesday, March 8, 2016

Today is International Women's Day and March is Women's History Month, so there's no better time to outline a few upcoming shows by female artists we admire.

From Hong Kong to Los Angeles, 2016 is brimming with exhibitions by awesome artists, who range in age from twentysomethings to one very impressive centenarian.

Ebony G. Patterson, Untitled (Girl) (2016). Work in progress.
Photo: Courtesy the artist and Monique Meloche Gallery

Ebony G. Patterson, "...when they grow up..." at the Studio Museum:

Ebony G. Patterson's hyper-colorful compositions (which are also currently on display at the the Museum of Arts and Design) will take center stage at Harlem's Studio Museum. The site-specific, mixed-media

moniquemeloche

451 N Paulina Street, Chicago 60622

312 243 2129 moniquemeloche.com

installation will address violence committed against young people of color through images of black youth in Patterson's signature lively, embellished style.

The entire installation will be designed so that visitors experience it through the physicality of a child, hopefully creating an immediate reaction of empathy with the children in question.

"...when they grow up..." will be on display from March 24–June 26, 2016