

office

Show Me Yours

July 22, 2019

Text by Margaux Halloran

Photos courtesy of Monique Meloche Gallery

Appearing alongside office highlighted artist Cheryl Pope, Monique Meloche Gallery presents Show Me Yours, featuring three new artists on the rise: Brittney Leeanne Williams, Jake Troyli, and Bianca Nemelc. This show, adjacent to Pope's BASKING NEVER HURT NO ONE, is an expansion of Pope's message on the nude form "as a site for examining systematic social concerns."

What does your own body mean to you? The body communicates as a symbol. With an emphasis placed on the content within one's form, the trifecta of artists each sit on their own plane of interpretation. Williams, Troyli, and Nemelc's individual interpretations of identity, the bodies potential, and the fragmented form, are all symbols that lie dormant inside our physical forms.

Each artist has located and expressed these motifs in their own perceptive way. The usage of saturated colors and forms, creates a balanced composition. All the pieces of work offer an expanse of opportunity for an intimate connection between viewer and artwork to form.

This contemporary installation will be on view until August 17.

